

This is a Tip-Tap!

These simple, African hand-washing devices are built near animal yards and outside toilets, to help stop diseases from spreading. When the charity Send a Cow gives families training in how to look after their animals, they also teach them how to make things like this.

Diseases often spread more easily in hot climates, with many people dying as a result. That's why it's so important for people to wash their hands.

You too!
